CASE STUDY

Supporting health technology assessment (HTA) submissions with gold-standard review practice

The challenge

Our client needed to gather evidence to support an HTA submission in oncology.

Our approach

- We conducted a set of HTA-ready reviews, that used gold-standard methodology and enabled our client to efficiently submit and gain reimbursement for their product in the UK.
- Because we conducted all necessary systematic reviews, including a review of epidemiology, treatment patterns, quality of life, as well as economic and clinical outcomes, we were able to share findings and efficiencies across reviews.

How we made a difference

- We delivered reviews that passed the high standards of NICE without additional comments.
